“First Contain and Eventually Eliminate the profession of chiropractic.”

“Coincidentally” this stated goal of the court proven, US medical conspiracy is well advanced in Australia.

The Chiropractic Care Of Infants With Colic: A Systematic Review Of The Literature.^[i]

RESULTS: Our findings reveal that chiropractic care is a viable alternative to the care of infantile colic and congruent with evidence-based practice, particularly when one considers that medical care options are no better than placebo or have associated adverse events.

Efficacy of Chiropractic Manual Therapy on Infant Colic: A Pragmatic Single-Blind, Randomized Controlled Trial.^[ii]

CONCLUSIONS: In this study, chiropractic manual therapy improved crying behavior in infants with colic.

Manipulative therapies for infantile colic.^[iii]

CONCLUSION: The majority of the included trials appeared to indicate that the parents of infants receiving manipulative therapies reported fewer hours crying per day than parents whose infants did not, based on contemporaneous crying diaries, and this difference

Organised Medicine is Waging War.

Please assist to counter the current medical campaign aimed at denying parents of their current liberty to take babies and children to chiropractors. This century long, global war is about bucks, not backs!

Medicine’s war on Chiropractic is conducted under the credible motive of protecting patient and public interests. Understanding substitution makes that motive reek of cynicism, of a betrayal of patient interests of the greatest magnitude.

was statistically significant. A 2014 review found only 12 reported cases of serious adverse events from manual therapy (seven of which involved a chiropractic physician) and three reported deaths (none of which involved a doctor of chiropractic) in over 115 years of literature. 12 cases in 115 years! Can any medical treatment compare as well?

The authors concluded: "Published cases of serious adverse events in infants and children receiving chiropractic, osteopathic, physiotherapy, or manual medical therapy are exceedingly rare. There have been no cases of deaths associated with chiropractic care reported in the academic literature to date."^[iv]

Thousands die and many thousands are permanently harmed each year without receiving adequate fore-warnings of their impending peril from the media, the government or the medical profession.

Action step: Please email copies of this news letter to your MPs and to the media outlets of your choice and ask: What action are you taking to end the concealment, via substitution, of the true total of Australia's annual iatrogenic toll?

Substitution serves to conceal the epidemic rate of iatrogenesis, harm arising from medical treatment as distinct from the patient's disorder.

A March 2000 submission from CAA (WA) to the WA department of Health reflected the overview that "the rate of iatrogenesis in Australia has reached epidemic proportions".

The comment section included: "These admissions, from leading members of the medical profession, are almost mind-bending in their implications."

The medical profession can no longer claim to be the protector of public health. It can claim, with justification, to be one of the prime causes of unnecessary death and disability in Australia.

It can no longer justify its attempts to retard the development of other health professions on the pretext of safeguarding public health.

It is past time for it to concentrate its energies on rectifying its own tragic mistakes. It appears that the stature and influence of the medical profession are the reasons why this tragic situation has not been widely disseminated by the news media.

Unless the new Medical Act specifically addresses this issue it will be swept under the carpet and treated as if it didn't exist. Action, even if unpleasant and unpopular, must be taken to correct the horrifying problem of medical iatrogenesis."

16 YEARS LATER, THE HORRIFYING PROBLEM OF MEDICAL IATROGENESIS CONTINUES.

Substitution needs to become a part of the conversation in the chiropractic community.

A 20-12-12 Fairfax Media article, "Ways To Die" used ABS data to account for 143,473 deaths. The graphic shows the bulk of deaths were allotted to the expected causes of death, such as cancer and heart diseases.

The government Report: Cause of Death, must rank as Australia's most blatant lie. For its pages conceal, rather than reveal, the total annual death toll from medical treatment as distinct from the patient's disorder, Australia's iatrogenic epidemic.

In 1995 investigative journalist John Archer used a meta-analysis of medical literature to guesstimate "An epidemic which could effect up to 750,000 people and result in 50,000 deaths annually deserves to be a top research priority."¹

In that same year, a study released by the then federal health minister, Carmen Lawrence, estimated that 18,000 patients died in Australia each year from one of the 12 categories of iatrogenic harm, medical mistakes.

This graphic contains no mention of iatrogenic deaths, where are they? The medical literature's thousands of iatrogenic deaths are missing from the Report!

A complete profile of iatrogenic deaths requires 12 categories. The World Health Organization's ICD-10 Cause-of-Death Lists for Tabulating Mortality Statistics has only 2 of those categories. Seemingly, the WHO guidelines for completing death certificates permit non-iatrogenic causes of death to be substituted on the death certificates of patients who actually died due to iatrogenic harm.

Substitution stops medical associations, pathology course lecturers, AHPRA, the medical registration Board, the Commission for Safety and Quality in Health Care and the Therapeutic Goods Administration from identifying the medical products and services that contribute toward the iatrogenic epidemic.

Substitution permits the media and patients to share the dangerous illusion that both the source of the iatrogenic epidemic, public health and practise of medicine are acceptably safe. Few reported iatrogenic deaths translates into no need to forewarn potential victims of their impending peril.
